Guy Fawkes, a Catholic man, wanted to blow up the British parliament, the Palace of Westminster. He wanted to assassinate the monarch, King James I.

On the fifth of November, someone let the cat out of the bag, and the military discovered the plot. They caught Fawkes and imprisoned him in the Tower of London. They tortured and finally executed the prisoner.

To celebrate the end of the conspiracy, the British had big bonfires, with a model of Guy Fawkes.

Today

On Guy Fawkes Night, 5 November, the tradition continues. There are fireworks and bonfires, with a Guy Fawkes!
